

ABSTRACT

A board game, with rules that can be flexibly set and easily understood by beginners, is disclosed. The board game is a varied and various-colored board game set comprising a varied and various-colored board and pieces. The board is equipped with two or more players parts having piece collating parts composed of a base frame with cells of 3 x 3 or more, and piece arranging parts composed of the same number of sets of cells as the piece collating parts. On the piece collating parts different colors or patterns such as numerals, characters, notations, photos or pictures are displayed in each cell. During game play, the above pieces are arranged at the piece arranging parts of the varied and various-colored board, on either side of the piece, a color or pattern is displayed respectively, which coincides with that displayed in each cell at the piece collating parts.